Executive Summary

For over 104 years, West Coast Detectives International has delivered trusted, results-driven investigative and security solutions to clients worldwide. Founded in 1922 in South Los Angeles, we have evolved from pioneering protection services for the entertainment industry into a full-service global intelligence and security organization — often recognized as the “Little FBI.”

Under the leadership of Philip W. Little, we combine unmatched historical expertise with cutting-edge technology and a worldwide network of intelligence and counter-terrorism professionals. Our mission is clear: help clients prevent threats before they materialize by delivering actionable intelligence, customized protection, and proactive risk management.

Whether you require complex global investigations, executive protection, secure international travel planning, or specialized counter-terrorism consulting, West Coast Detectives International provides discreet, highly effective solutions tailored to your unique needs and risk profile.

We are proud to offer the rare combination of generational trust, global reach, and modern capabilities that few firms can match. Our executive team is personally committed to ensuring every client receives exceptional service and measurable results.

We look forward to discussing how we can support your safety and security objectives.
